

Sofia Särddquist works at the Swedish National Archives mainly with audits, guidance and information governance. She has worked in the areas of local, regional and national authorities in Sweden. Since 2020 she has been a part of the EAG subgroup Archiving by Design.

She has a special interest in European cooperation in the area of information governance, and believes and engages in taking parts of each other's work and challenges, in relation to the digital transformation which we all are a part of. She also engages in contemporary information governance issues like maturity assessment and the challenges of multi-provenance as part of digitalization and cooperation.
